MACON, GEORGIA

A "GRADE A" COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

COLLEGE STREET, LOOKING EAST

MAIN ENTRANCE

WESLEYAN COLLEGE occupies an ideal location in the heart of the residential section of the city of Macon. It fronts on College Street, one of the most beautiful streets in America. The College buildings, five in number, are of brick and marble and are commodious and convenient. All buildings are connected by covered passageways.

Macon, one of the most beautiful of Southern cities, has a remarkable atmosphere of culture and religion and is one of the most healthful cities in the world. For the school year it is unsurpassed in climate. It escapes the hard winters of the North and the oppressive heat of the extreme South. The hill country of middle Georgia enjoys a climate as invigorating as the mountains, while it escapes the ice and snows of the Northern winters.

A CORNER OF FRONT PORCH

SECTION OF FRONT CAMPUS

WESLEYAN COLLEGE was chartered in 1836 and opened its doors for students in 1839. Its work has been uninterrupted from that time with the exception of a few months during the Civil War. Some of the most illustrious of American educators have taught within its halls.

Bishop Pierce, Dr. William Ellison, Dr. Bass, Dr. Bonnell, Mrs. J. B. Cobb, have been among its distinguished officials.

The alumnae is one of the largest and most distinguished bodies of women in the world. Illustrious names like that of Laura Haygood are found not infrequently in the lists.

A CORNER OF THE LIBRARY

WESLEYAN has always had her choice of girls. The students are a splendid body of young women. There is nothing boisterous or unladylike tolerated among them, but they are positive and strong. The spirit of leadership is in the very atmosphere. They have among themselves their own government and administer it with great fidelity. They are real women.

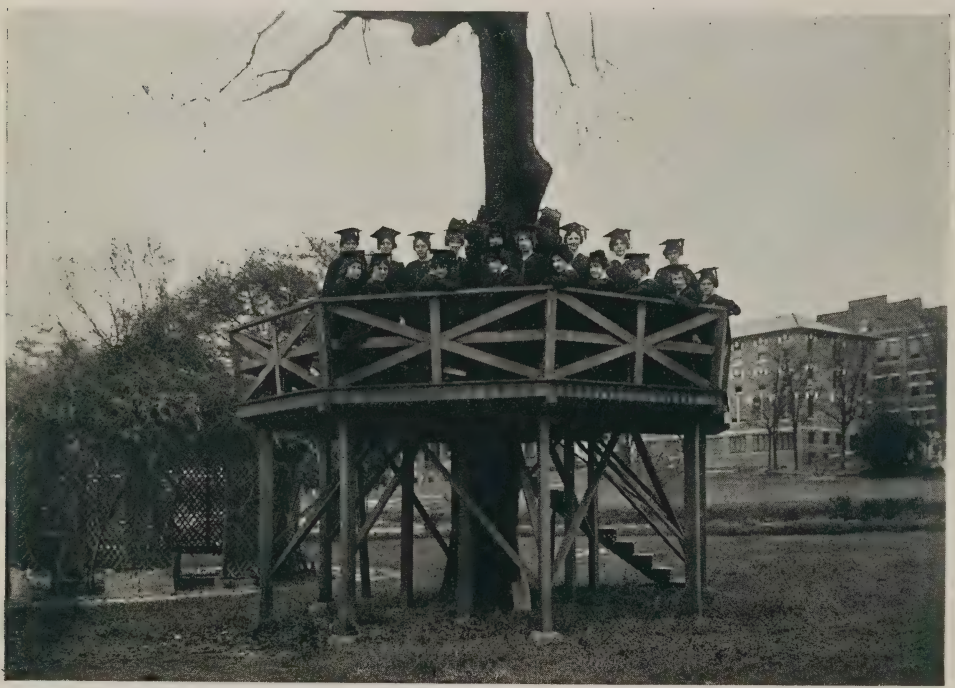
The standards of scholarship at Wesleyan are as high as are found in any school for men in the state. The published entrance requirements and curricula are exactly required. We live up to our professions conscientiously. The members of the Faculty have had good training for their specialties in the best universities. They are strong and consecrated men and women who have the teacher's gift.

SENIORS

A LARGE variety of courses is offered, so that a young lady may study those branches that she likes best while looking to graduation with a College degree. The same number of hours are required for graduation without reference to the courses elected or to the degree desired.

The equipment of the laboratories for the best teaching of the modern sciences is very fine. Every experiment necessary for the study of a science may be made by the individual student.

A splendid department of Domestic Science under an excellent teacher will be ready for the opening of the Fall Semester. It will have the most modern equipment, and the very highest grade college work will be done. Credit toward a regular degree will be given for this course.



THE CROW'S NEST

A GROUP OF EXPRESSION STUDENTS

THE Wesleyan School of Oratory is a special feature of the College so far as the fine arts are concerned. Miss Anne Chenault Wallace has made a brilliant record in several large colleges as instructor and entertainer. She is a graduate from the Columbia School of Expression, has several diplomas from the Emerson School of Oratory, and a certificate from the Harvard Summer School. She is a young woman of charming personality, of broad culture, and is an author of some note. She is, perhaps, the most brilliant teacher of Oratory in the entire South.

The rooms for the use of the department are well equipped, and the students are given all needed opportunity for practice.

IN WINTER'S GRIP

FOURTEEN officers and teachers in the Conservatory make a really great music Faculty. Some of these teachers have been at Wesleyan for years and have taught some of the leading musicians of Georgia. They have had training in the best conservatories of America, and many of them have had illustrious teachers during long stays in Europe. The master of great piano-teachers and pianists is represented in the Wesleyan Faculty by one of his well-trained pupils. The voice department is in the hands of two of the finest teachers in the South. Wesleyan has one of the most gifted violinists on the continent, who has, too, the gift of teaching.

Mr. Jos. Maerz, who has toured America as a concertist, playing in all of the principal cities in company with several of the world's greatest musicians, and official pianist of the Jamestown Exposition for three months, is the head of the Music department. Mr. Maerz is not only a brilliant pianist, but is a teacher of distinguished ability, having held for six years a professorship of Piano in the great Music department of Syracuse University.

The College has also been very fortunate in securing Mr. James R. Gillette, a graduate of Syracuse University, an officer in the American Guild of Organists and a distinguished concertist, as a teacher of Pipe Organ, Theory, and Harmony.

Wesleyan has one of the best pipe organs in the state.

Fifty new pianos are in perfect order and readiness for practice.

Drawing and Painting in Charcoal, Oil, etc., have their place at Wesleyan, and it is no unimportant place. The Art department is simply unsurpassed. The head of that school has had the best American and European training, and is prepared to do the highest order of work. Portrait painting from life is taught with great care. Every beautiful piece of scenery in the vicinity of the College furnishes a subject for the brush of the young artists. Their work is thoroughly original—a good foundation in the principles of perspective is laid, and then all the artistic originality of the pupil is drawn out by the skillful teacher. One of her pupils won a Cooper Union, New York, scholarship this year over many American competitors.

The China Painting department scarcely needs to be mentioned. So great has been the growth of the department that recently the size of the kiln for firing china has had to be multiplied by three. Two large kilns now amply meet the need, and quite a number of young ladies can be accommodated in that popular department.

A PORTION OF REAR CAMPUS

THE CHAPEL

THE religious life of the College is becoming deeper and stronger as the years go by. Tidal waves of worldliness sweeping over the country do not affect the College. No student attends card parties, dances, or theatres. We are old-fashioned Christians at Wesleyan, too busy for dissipation and folly.

The Young Woman's Christian Association is very strong, practically embracing the student-body. The Missionary Society is doing excellent work. The Bible is taught in the College course; there is also a course in Mission Study and a course in Sunday School Pedagogy. The students are banded in other groups for Mission Study. The College has a pastor who assists the President in the religious leadership. Either he or the President preaches to the students each Sunday evening. On Sunday morning, every girl attends a church of the denomination to which her parents belong.

Many a young woman has been led to Christ at Wesleyan College, and a large number of the leading Christian workers have gone from her halls.

THE home life of the Wesleyan girls is very happy. Student government is an ideal democracy in College discipline. The Faculty and all officials exert themselves to see that every needed attention and protection is accorded the individual student. All teachers are approachable and cordial. They love the companionship of the girls.

The rooms are bright and sunny, the wide porches extend quite around the buildings, and the view across the city is perfectly lovely. The genial disposition of polite young women from the first homes of the country, added to the sunlight of the natural environment, makes the school life most happy. The culinary department is in charge of one of the best stewardesses in America. She furnishes the tables with a remarkable variety, well prepared and most attractively served. "How can she at the board we pay?" is the student's constant query.

The health of the young ladies is carefully looked after by one of the best trained nurses in the city. Wesleyan is noted for its healthy girls.

Macon, one of the most beautiful of Southern cities, is situated in the hills of Middle Georgia, and Wesleyan faces its best street and is surrounded on every side of the campus by the choicest of Southern homes. No more inspiring environment could possibly be asked. Nearly two hundred of the best girls of Macon attend the College, giving the institution as large a patronage and as thorough endorsement as could possibly be desired. The absolute loyalty of Macon is a deserved tribute to the genuineness of Wesleyan's work.

IN THE GYMNASIUM

SENIOR AND JUNIOR HALL AND GYMNASIUM

A PART OF CAMPUS

THE College campus contains eight acres well adapted to the purpose of field athletics. It is laid off in lawns, tennis courts, basket-ball grounds, etc. It has beautiful shade trees and summer houses. There is but little of the winter too severe for outdoor sports, and none of the autumn or spring is too hot. Besides the outdoor life on the campus, the young ladies are given opportunity for walks in the best parts of the city and surrounding country.

The College Gymnasium is under the direction of one of the best teachers in the South. All necessary apparatus is furnished, and the Gymnasium is splendidly equipped. The students are required to take proper exercise.

AFTER THE CLASS HOURS

LAWN TENNIS IS ENCOURAGED

"BUT it costs too much at Wesleyan." Does it though? Two hundred and sixty dollars for the best board, lights, laundry, all college fees and literary tuition. By taking a cheaper room—and all the rooms are very good—a young lady can go through the four years at Wesleyan and obtain a first-class literary education for less than one thousand dollars. It can be done at few schools of high grade. Wesleyan offers the best at the most reasonable cost.

In the special departments no more is charged than is absolutely necessary to maintain the departments at their very high standards. Wesleyan gives good value for every dollar paid by her patrons. The School is not conducted to make money, but to render service to American womanhood.
